THE PURCHASE AND SALES OF A PREDATOR COUNTER FEATURE THE PURCHASE AND SALES OF A PREDATOR COUNTER FEATURE "The monster like a carrion crow stalked down on us with the raw silent force of a hurricane" The Purloined Letter by Edgar Allen Poe Source: Exhibit Book of the Second American International Exhibition by Henry Inman Source: Yaverland, R. A., A History of Art in the United States, p. 83 The Dead Pool A detective, Andrew Poole, is slowly and methodically slaughtered in his office by the mysterious Blackwood Gang. Meanwhile, the police have a portrait in their possession which is in a way identical to the one owned by Poole. It turns out that all of the dead policemen were actually men with Blackwood gang affiliations. This picture was placed in the hands of the Inspector shortly after the first death. To confuse matters, he was to be shown this picture just as he was about to sign the warrant. The Duel One of Thomas Chambers and William Wilson, the two masked murderers of the famous Eddystone book by Ned Crocker, was covered in part by a sheet hung in such a way as to conceal his face. Crocker took the picture and the whole incident was witnessed by a doctor who immediately drew his conclusion
