Reborn Tribe is a simulation game. As a part-time indie game developer, this game only contains a few basic contents. After that, I will design the game in a step by step way. The game is still under development.

Therefore, there might be a few bugs. If you are a happy player, you can be one of our cheerleaders! If you are interested in more details about this game, you can check the information below. [Reborn Tribe] is the story of humanity in the ancient time [Reborn Tribe] is the story of humanity in the ancient time Each tribe is separated in the early time and established its own civilization. [Reborn Tribe] is the story of humanity in the ancient time [Unity] Building a clean and simple UI Hello, I have been developing games and game engines for over 20 years, and Unity has always been one of my favorites. It has a very nice and clean API for rendering 3D content and for controller and user interface programming. It supports Mecanim animation and smoothing. It also has a very large user base, which is always a good indicator for being a robust engine. One problem I found was the built in scene view and tools, they all look pretty outdated and out of date. It appears that Unity is moving away from the good, simple and clean stuff they used to do in the early days and going in the direction of bloated, ugly and hard to use stuff. I made an attempt to clean up the UI even though I am not very happy

Features Key:

Bloodline are a pack that are a whole new tier. All of the packs contain the new 'Bloodline' of feeling that are summoned when you use the Smite Emblem, allowing you to feel the Bloodline subpowers and powers of the pack you buy.

It has Smite Emblems for all of the clans

New Clan Abilities, some of which can only be learned by Veterans

Clan and Empires abilities can be learned by any level (newly created, if you join a clan)

You can buy ability cards for thousands more combinations once your clan/Empire level has grown to over 7

Invisible Troops ranging from 5-100 are available that can be purchased

You can level up your troops on the battlefield by grouping them together

Special Troops that can turn your army and allies into mostly a giant spider-like creature

Tribe abilities unlock if you have enough reputation with a tribe (Don't ask how exactly I got that number haha)

A lot of new features not found in previous games

Survival Farming Guide: 1. How to build and run the farms: - Put the farm on the top left corner of the screen and rotate the farms clockwise to build the farm.- Once the farm is built, the price of crop is CHEAP!- You can collect eggs by clicking the eggs.- When the baby of chicken has grown up, you need to give birth to another chicken.- Eggs can also be given by the adult chicken to other adult chickens. - Put the pasture on the top right corner of the screen and rotate the pasture clockwise to build the pasture. When the animals are in the pasture, you can buy Milk or Cheese from the Pasture.- When the sheep has grown up, you need to give birth to another sheep. Sheep is very important for the farmers as they are necessary to provide wool to the workers.- Sheep can also be given by the adult sheep to other adult sheep.- The Milk and Cheese is expensive, especially in the high period.- Use the Milk and Cheese as the staff to feed the workers. (Tip: Horses are also very important to the farmers. When your horses have grown up, they can be bought at a lower price than the sheep. However, they are much less important than the sheep. They have strong ability to overcome obstacles.)- When the cows have grown up, you need to give birth to another cow. Cows are also important to the farmers, but they are much less important than the sheep.- Use the milk of the cows to feed the workers. (Tip: Don't feed the workers with leather.)-

When your cows have given birth to baby cows, you need to give birth to a cow. However, you can feed a baby cow with cow milk and leather.- If you need to sell the baby cows, you need to cut off the baby cows by yourself. 2. How to build and run the workshops: - Put the workshop on the bottom left corner of the screen and rotate the workshops clockwise to build the workshop.- Your workshop can produce Furnaces. The quality of the furnace will improve when you collect your dust. The furnace will produce fireballs, and the workers can run on the flames.- The furnace consumes coal for the fireballs.- The coal can be bought from the coal mines. The price of coal is very cheap.- Put the Furnace on the top left corner of the screen and rotate the furnace clockwise to use the furnace.- The Furnace can also be fed

What's new in Reborn Tribe:

MP40 22LR,Part 2 - Twist & Shout Introduction After getting reviews, feedback, and experienced hands around my firearm, I took it out to the range. I practiced basic loading and firing. I learned to shoot a gun. I started to get comfortable with a firearm. It made me realize just how much I liked firearms for exactly the reason, which prompted me to keep picking up my hobbies, the more, the better. I spent a year trying to find a good spinning metal, short barrel, black rifle with better sights for target shooting. The availability of alternative components through import markets made my search quite simple. I came across the venerable MP40, commonly called the "MKII 40". Well, I got a gun, it is old, it was good, and I even paid $600 for it, I thought; what the heck. I wanted to give it a proper tone up. I was going to give it a twist. Most likely a drop of some of the nice guns turnings available in different shops as a first person for a stock to be made to order. I thought it would change the look entirely. I wanted to keep it stock with a few traditional touches to fit the antique theme. What started as a mundane, or so I thought project, ended up taking up five months. But in the end, it is a caliber that lives a life long term while others come and go. I guess it's simple, but there is and will always be something good in people, through and through, no matter how hard we try to control or devolve them. It's born from within us, and radiate of old flame. It's like in the movie Pulp Fiction, when Mr. W. says "You put your ego on the line with a gun, you live with the consequences.". Well, you can say I did that. I put my ego on the line and ran the risk of taking my firearm down the shop. It went down, but only for a stupid mechanic who didn't appreciate sacrificing the bronzed finish. It cost me around $600, and it is the best investment for just $600. It's the gun that I keep coming back to. It's the perfect marker in time, and reflects my passion for antique firearms and shooting. Twist & Shout, in a word is a foregrip
