as far as i know, there are no plans to bring office for mac 2013 to the mac app store. in office 2013, you can create a document in word, excel, or powerpoint using your ios device, and then create a copy of the document on your mac. but you can't edit the file directly on your mac, and you can't create a copy of the document directly on your mac. if you need to edit a document created on your ios device, you must launch word, excel, or powerpoint on your mac. while i've been working on this book, i've been using office 2016 for the mac. it's a wonderful piece of software. i use it in all my classes. it's a phenomenal product, and it's been a huge improvement over word, excel, and powerpoint on the mac. but it's not available in the mac app store. you can download it directly from microsoft's site. the mac version of office 2016 is available in three editions. office home & business 2016, office home & business 2016 & student 2016, and office 2016. just go to the downloads page, download the appropriate edition of office for mac, and install it. office 365 subscribers gain access to the latest office 2010, 2013, and 2016 products, as well as office 2010 and 2013 updates, when using windows 7. you can get the latest version of office 365 for only $9.99 per month per user, per device. that's the same price you'd pay for a single retail version of office 2016. when you're an office 365 subscriber, you can install any office product on any windows 7 device, including your desktop and laptop computers, your tablet, and your smartphone. you can also install office 2016 on windows 10 devices. 5ec8ef588b
